National Service Scheme (NSS) of SLC Session on Covid-19
16th May, 2020

The novel Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) is an important and urgent threat to global health. It affects people more when they have less information about the prevention methods. Timely access to accurate information and public awareness on prevention methods is one of the feasible methods for the people to avoid the infection from the virus. Identifying the levels of public awareness on disease prevention is important to make the pandemic less severe.

In this pandemic, everyone should be aware of the risks posed by COVID-19 and, most importantly, be informed about how to protect themselves and their families and societies at large. National Service Scheme (NSS) team of Shyam Lal College (University of Delhi) paid tributes to all “CORONA WARRIORS” who fought courageously. The doctors, nurses, allied medical staff and government employees who all supported the entire nation to fight the pandemic need to be paid rich tributes. Major prevention methods recommended by the WHO like; regularly and thoroughly clean hands with an alcohol-based hand rub or wash them with soap and water, maintaining social/physical distancing, avoid touching eyes, nose and mouth, and different protection measures based on the situations were told. It was emphasized to practice YOGA daily to keep our immune system ready to fight against corona virus. During the COVID-19 situation an interactive session was organized on Google meet by NSS in collaboration with IQAC on 16 May 2020. More than 100 students participate in this event. The main focus of this event was to “Managing Chronic Diseases: COVID-19”.
