

Eco-club (the last leaf) Shyam Lal College
In collaboration with
Department of Environment, Government of NCT, Delhi

In 2023, the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) declared it the International Year of Millets, following a proposal from India. In recognition of this, Shyam Lal College (DU), in collaboration with SARASWATI IKS CENTRE and IQAC, organized a program named Bharatiya Bhasha Utsav on (1St December 2023). This event featured various activities, one of which was dedicated to promoting the consumption and cultivation of millets. These activities highlighted the resilience and environmental benefits of millets, which are ideally suited to India's climate and soil conditions. As part of this initiative, a competition was organized, in which our Eco-club team participated and excelled, securing the first, second, and third prizes. Demonstrating exceptional creativity, the team prepared healthy and tasty millet-based dishes and set up attractive stalls. They also enlightened teachers and students about the nutritional value of millet. A total of 12 students participated in this successful event, highlighting the importance of millets in sustainable agriculture and food security. Below are the pictures showing how students participated.

